Poor Smith.

Poor Roll-em Wall.

Poor Ross.

Poor Ford.

Poor Brown.

For reasons well known to myself (and to everyone else who reads the GCW) I did not like Ford. However, he is to be congratulated upon issuing early congratulations to his successful opponent and upon his determination to get into service as quickly as possible. However, he need not be in too great a hurry as the draft board will get him quickly enough as it is getting all men of his age who are married but have no children.

I could say a whole lot along the subject of Ford, but it is not my policy to gloat over a fallen foe. I prefer to administer salve, instead of salt, to the bleeding wounds.

With a 12,000 lead, Jim Eastland cannot be headed.

The official election returns, published elsewhere, are most interesting. Eastland carried every box in the county except Graysport. Abernethy carried every box in the county except Tie Plant. Mr. Brown received 12 votes in the county, beating Mr. Smith by 4 votes.

Almost complete unofficial returns for the State are:

Collins	36,286
Doxey	37,602
Eastland	49,388
Smith	1,230
Wall	7,577

My luck has turned. BOTH my men will win. One has already won, and they cannot head the other one.

I do not know which was the happier, Dr. Clanton or Abernethy.

This is getting serious: Horn and Greenfield face week-ends of idleness and sin unless some job work is forthcoming.

Let the scars heal, quickly. A unified Grenada will be insufficient to cope with the problem of the tens of thousand soldiers soon to be here.

The Collins men are to be commended upon a gallant, if losing fight. They were just as conscientious in their work as we were in ours.

I imagine I will find time to go into Mr. Doxey's record, and let the people know, as Roll-em Wall said "the book and page."

Ben Brown has sold his alarm clock, as the laundry whistle wakes him even sooner than usual.

We have added so many new ones and received so many renewals that we just cannot get to them this week; in fact, we have about thrown up our hands in respair.

All of us have to live here together, and the esteem of my friends, even if temporarily in other political camps, is worth infinitely more to me than ALL politicians put together.

nawsuh jedge carothers we wuz jest rolling dem bones fer fun. I warnt gamblin.

Don't forget the Bingo Game at the Legion Hut Friday night.

William Wright entertained a group of friends in the Catacombs Monday evening.

The great moral wave has about subsided.

The political foe today will be the political ally of tomorrow, so there's no need of getting stirred up.

Just as soon as Eastland is elected, or better to say, after the run-off the gubernatorial candidates will begin stirring around. Since the GCW has moved out of the Chinch Den into a brick building, maybe Mike Conner will visit us.

Citizens are reminded that the telephone system, the post office department and the power company, to mention the three principle "service" organizations, are seeking to serve their customers, but the increased load on their facilities and the drafting of experienced employees have placed great strains on them. Therefore, the people will, upon reflection, be patient if mail deliveries are a trifle late, or if the operator does not respond immediately, or if power is sometimes "off" for usually long periods.

"Horse" Wilkins, of Duck Hill, was a recent visitor to town.

ANY ONE OF THESE THINGS WILL HELP YOUR COUNTRY WIN THE WAR!!

Look over the list: see whether you have any of these items which will make munitions of war. If you have, and they are not in use, take them to the nearesst scrap metal bin and contribute them to the cooperative campaign among the city salvage groups. Mr. John Rundle, Chairman Grenada County.

Remember that one old smoothing iron will make 12 hand grenades, that a discarded lawn mower has enough metals for a number of 37-milimeter shells

Get your scrap into the scrap! It is your duty as a patriotic American!

Metal lamp stands, electric lamp bulb, electric lamp sockets, electric wire, meetal letter openers, metal ash trays, metal bric-a-brac, radio sets, radio batteries radio tubes, metal candlesticks, ceiling fixtures, window shade brackets, window shade rollers, andirons, (fire dogs), fireplace screens, fire tongs, lawn mowers, cast iron skillets iron wash pots, sewing machines, washing machines, metal towel racks, electric fans food choppers, metal platters, kitchen sinks, lavatories, plumbing fixtures, axes, hatchets, any hand tools, children's toys roller skates, rubber dolls, balls, window sash weights, door knobs, hinges, metal hair curlers, kitchen utensils, tableware, cutlery, coal, gas, wood stoves, garbage cans, hot water tanks, hot water heaters galvanized pipe, jar lids and rubbers, electric irons, smoothing irons, toasters, waffle irons, door keys, metal soap dishes, gas heaters, toothpaste tubes, scissors, gutter, dowpipes, corrugated roofing, metal bridge tables, metal furniture, clocks fireless cookers, pressure cookers, fly swatters, auto batteries, garden tools, auto tools, auto parts, auto bodies lightning rods, metal tool boxes, fishing tackle boxes workshop machinery.

This is not a complete list; it represents SOME of the things most people do not recognize as having any value to our men in service.

Do not say: "I'm sure I do not have any 'salvage metals.' Look over the list above and put into action EVERY OUNCE of metal and rubber of that sort.

Contribute it to your community campaign; throw it into a scrap bin in your town or on a WPA salvage metals scrap pile: if you have enough to make it worth while, sell it to your local scrap deaer.

BUT GET IT INTO ACTION AGAINST THE AXIS! That is the important things.

Promoted From Corporal To Sergeant

News has been received by his parents that Whyte Whitaker, Jr., of the 631st Anti Tank Battalion has been promoted from Corporal to Sergeant.

SGT. WILLIAM W. WHITAKER

He is the son of Editor and Mrs. W. W. Whitaker, and was an original member of the Grenada "home" company.

Good luck, sarge.

Swetland Graduates At Chanute Field

Pvt. Raymond O. Swetland, husband of Mrs. Naomi Swetland, 121 N. Main Street, Grenada, was graduated recently from the Chanute Field school of Army Air Forces Technical Training Command.

While at Chanute Field he was trained in various technical operations vital to the maintenance of the country's fighting planes.

Mrs. Lamar Chamberlain requested the GCW to announce that Lamar had not gone to the army yet, and that had not vacated their apartment. Folks have almost deviled "Miss" Allie Gerard to death, in whose home the Chamberlains live, for the Chamberlain apartment.

Colonel I. E. Ryder, New Post Commander

Colonel I. E. Ryder, Infantry, U. S. Army, arrived in Grenada early this week and has assumed the duties of Post Commander at Camp McCain.

According to information received from the President, via Jackson, Title VI of the housing act will be immediately effective in Grenada and Greenwood.

It is our understanding that this ruling will permit the erection of much needed housing in this area.

Citizens Meeting At Community House

Colonel Ryder spoke for an hour at the Citizens' meeting held at the Community House Tuesday evening, giving much general information and news to the group as pertaining to army and community relation with opening of Camp McCain to soldiers. He said among other things that all kinds of young men are in the army just as there are all kinds of young men in every community, and one great need is a hearty cooperation from the officers of the camp, with citizens of the community encouragement to promote amicable relations always. He assured the group that Camp McCain will be ready to cooperate in the soldier recreation problem confronting us during the first few months after the opening of the camp, and gave the citizens at this meeting a feeling of confidence that all things will work out normally.

Rev. Gen E. Wiley, USO chairman, of Grenada County introduced Colonel Ryder and Mrs. Ryder.

Colonel Ryder spoke at the Rotary Club Tuesday noon, and received a most enuthusiastic reception.

Practice Air Raid Alarm Signal

At 4:00 p. m. Friday, August 28th, the office of Civilian Defense in cooperation with the Grenada Fire Department will practice sounding an Air Raid Warning Signal. Everybody is required to listen so they will be able to distinguish Signal from regular Fire Alarm. The churches are being asked to ring the church bells immediately after hearing the Siren Signal, which will be heard by people who might not hear the Siren. A partial blackout of Grenada will be held as soon as authority to hold the blackout is received.

Letter From Mr. Zwingle To Mayor Proby

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 11, 1942

Hon. L. C. Proby, Mayor,
Grenada, Miss.

My dear Mr. Proby:

I must apologize to you for my delay in acknowledging your letter of July 25. You will understand that it is difficult for us to keep correspondence up to date considering the great pressure that is on us at this time. Our recommendation for Grenada is that the buiding there be operated by three agencies, YMCA, NCCS and JWB, with YMCA furnishing the building director. I trust that this recommendation will meet with the approval of the commission and the USO Committee.

It was a pleasure to meet you and your citizens and I look forward to a happy relationship between the city of Grenada and the USO.

Please feel free to call upon me whenever I can be of service to you.

Cordially yours,
J. L. ZWINGLE,
Acting Regional
Representative.

Dedicated To Completion Of Cantonment And Air Base Near Grenada

Fulfilling what it believes to be an obligation to the community, The Grenada County Weekly now has in course of preparation a most extensive and elaborate publication, which will be dedicated to the completion of the cantonment and other Governmental activities in this area in an "All Out For Victory" program.

Work has already started on this endeavor and we have been assured full cooperation and support from many of the leading and most active forces in the community, in addition to those who head the vast construction operation at Camp McCain.

With the above in mind arrangements have been made to present a publication in concise form, largely pictorial, with many copies for distribution to commissioned officers and personnel who will shortly be located here, with many additional copies for circulation throughout the country over a special mailing list now being compiled for this purpose.

This will be among the first—if perhaps not the first newspaper in the entire State to issue a complete supplement in the retrogravure process, and at the same time it is being so constructed that it will be a memorial to Grenada, its institutions, and to many loyal and patriotic men and women who have had a part in making the "All Out For Victory" program a success. This publication will tell of those folks and the stake they have in the history making of Grenada and this section as of the present.

Grenada has an honorable history and the highlights in its progress from the beginning—as a result of the marriage of two rival villages, Tullahoma and Pittsburg which were separated by Line Street in 1826 will be cited. Not only will this rotrogravure section contain scenes—approved by the Commanding Officer of the camp and of the activities of the various firms whose sustained efforts have resuted in the rapid progress at Camp McCain, but it will also contain pictures of local people, local scenes and local buildings and churches.

In laying the groundworks for this issue, which we hope to surpass the high standard that we seek to attain in EVERY issue of our paper, we first contacted Major John C. Wade, U. S. Engineers, Area Engineers, who promsed his moral support and cooperation to the extent that wartime regulations permit; following that a similar promise of moral support and cooperation was solicited and received from Mr. Laurence T. Phillips, local head of the architect-engineer firm of Chas. T. Main Company. Mr. Kratt, representative of the prime contractor, the J. A. Jones Construction Company, of Charlotte, N. C., readily agreed to cooperate both with moral and with financial support—for an issue of the size and number that we hope to publish is beyond the financial capacity of a small newspaper like the GCW; tho, if we were financially able, we would be most happy to render this service to our community without charge.

Mr. George S. Meyers is assisting us in this endeavor. He has credentials which show that for nearly thirty years he has successfully assisted in preparation of special editions. He is the man who will do most of the work so far as the rotogravure section is concerned. He is now engaged in soliciting contracts for space in the "brown" section and will, at a later date, seek committments for space in the part of the issue that is produced in our press room.

This edition is scheduled to appear sometime within the next three months. It should be a credit to the builders and designers of Camp McCain and the air base, to the people of this community and to the GCW and should add another success to the long list of successes that Mr. Meyers has achieved in similar efforts.

We solicit the cooperation of all contractors, all local business groups and the people of our community generally, for nobody concerned (least of all the GCW) would want anything of the magnitude which we have in mind to MISrepresent our camp, or contractors or our community.

LATER: Since writing the above, several other of the major contractors have agreed to cooperate financially and morally.

The Senatorial Race

(an editorial)

From the senatorial race the people of Mississippi on Tuesday of this week eliminated all but two men, Jim Eastland and Wall Doxey.

The race now becomes a Bilbo-antiBilbo affair. Roland Wall, one of the best men in the race, ran on a strictly anti-Bilbo ticket and most of his eight thousand votes will go to Jim Eastland.

From my observation here in Grenada county—and I feel that a cross section of the entire state—the men who supported Collins, by and large, are strictly anti-Bilbo. Most of these votes will go against Bilbo's candidate, even if they are not so hot for Jim Eastland.

Personally I am against every man who has frittered away the government's money (or rather your money and my money) on useless things and have permitted our defense to be neglected, and this included Mr. Doxey who has been in Washington for lo these many years. Even if I had not been for Jim Eastland in the first primary, I would be for him in the run-off, for my ticket has been and continues to be, "Vote against every d..... one of them." Sometime in the near future I hope to have space to publish a look-see at Wall Doxey's record, as I did with Mr. Collins's record.

I am tired of the "old faces." Every important race that is run in Mississippi has most of the following in it: Dennis Murphree, Mike Conner, Lester Franklin, Hugh White, Paul Johnson, Bilbo and Billy Snider. I want a real New Deal in Mississippi politics. I want a man whose mind has not been atrophied by the easy, useless life in Washington. I want a man who is young full of pep and ginger and anxious to make a name for himself.

I want Mississippi to be represented by TWO Senators and I do not want Bilbo (or anyone else) telling me how to vote. I was for Wall Doxey last year. But, what Bilbo wants, I do not want. Therefore, Doxey is automatically eliminated, so far as I am concerned.

Wall Doxey is a likable fellow, a good hand shaker and a fine back patter. So far as I have been able to find out he has exhibited no signs of statesmanship during the decade he has been in Washington. Jim Eastland, during his brief tenure of office, DID exhibit some statesmanship and his usefulness should increase as he adds experience to his natural intelligence.

Mr. Collins' supporters here in Grenada county put up a noble, if losing fight. Not one whiser of any unethical conduct by them in behalf of their choice has come to my ears. They used reason and logic lavishly, but no intimidation.

So far as I am concerned I'm still for Long Staple Jim.

The Dam

It is unfortunate, but true, both for those who want the Yalobusha River dam to be built and for those who oppose the building of the dam that neither the advocates nor the protesters will have a bit of influence either way.

If the government wants to build the dam, the dam will be built even if EVERY affected person opposes it; and, on the contrary, if the government decides not to build the dam, the united efforts of all affected parties would not change the adverse decision of the government.

I have made this prediction in the past and I repeat it here: the dam will not be built, if at all, until after the war is over. It would be extremely foolish for the government to divert vital materials, vital skilled labor and money from the war effort to ANYTHING that could wait. The government does many foolish things, but the building of the Yalobusha River dam IN WAR-TIME will not, in my opinion, be one of these foolish things.

Very frankly, I believe the dam WILL be built eventually.

Save Mr. Rundle

I am sure that, if I asked Mr. Rundle about this, he would ask that it not be published, therefore this will be a surprise to him.

Mr. Rundle's seemingly exhaustless energy is not exhaustless. There is a limit to any man's energy. His energy has been severely taxed especially during this period of emergency. "Ask Mr. Rundle" is an answer, or reply, to too many questions. I find myself "Asking Mr. Rundle" many things that somebody else should be asked.

Mr. Rundle has great problems to solve in caring for the normal needs of Grenada's growing school system, and has an acute problem in caring for the great number of children who will be here during the construction period, and, following that, the children of the officers and noncommissioned officers who will have their families here.

In the future, before you "Ask Mr. Rundle," be sure that somebody else can not answer just as well, and serve just as well.

His energies should be conserved for the most important tasks. Younger men should relieve him of many of his extraneous duties.

Let's change our slogan from, "Ask Mr. Rundle," to, "Save Mr. Rundle".

It Can Happen Here

In an inconspicuous place in yesterday's Commercial Appeal was a story headed, "50 Belgians Executed, Nazis Announce."

This execution occurred perhaps 5,400 miles away, and it's only just another story. It is hard to visualize those 50 bodies lying on the ground lifeless . . . not because they had done anything when alive, but because they were handy when hostages were being picked out.

But they are dead . . . dead because the Nazis have turned back the clock of time two thousand years to the time when innocent persons were killed for deeds of others.

To make the matter more real, let us imagine that Grenada county is in the hands of the Nazis.

The Nazis have been in command of this area for some months now, and there has arisen the underground guerilla resistance that always comes forth in communities whose people have spirit.

Two of the guerrillas, lively young fellows from Grenada High School, slip out at night and shoot a swaggering Nazi officer. They do their work quietly for they could be shot for being out after curfew. They slip back home. The Nazi commander goes into action quickly. His secret police take fifty Grenada county citizens into custody. They are not suspected of killing the Nazi officer . . . they are just "hostages."

The Nazi commander announces that unless the person or persons responsible for killing the Nazi officer are surrendered, the fifty "hostages" will be shot.

He is a possible list of those "hostages," chosen at random, just as the Nazis would choose them:

GRAYSPORT: Henry Marters, Rogers Parker, Dr. Rouse and Mr. Ligon.

MT. NEBO: Albert Clark, Spurgeon Burke, Phil Cook, and Will Merritt.

SPEARS: Dave Williams, Tom Spears, Constable Mahan and Mr. Horton.

OXBERRY: John Emmons, Earl Staten, Grover Cunningham, Squire Steele and Herman Massey.

HARDY: Dr. Coats, Warmack Smith, Millard Tilghman and Webster Goodwin.

PEARIDGE: Cousin Ira Roussaville, Clinton Thomason, Squire Pickle and Ben Thomason.

PROVIDENCE: Lester Carpenter, W. A. Pittman, Jeff Marter and Mr. White.

GORE SPRINGS: W. B. Rook, Eugene McGahey, J. M. Williams, and Rev. J. M. Spikes.

HOLCOMB: Ed Holcomb, Sam Norris, Dot Hayden and W. B. Simpson.

TIE PLANT: Ed Lewis, Ben McElwrath, and Mr. Nichols.

ELLIOTT: Bob Carpenter and Mr. Gant.

GRENADA: Turner Bailey, George Fox, Mayor Proby, John Pressgrove, Henry Ray, Professor Rundle, Newt Rayburn, O. D. Spratlin, Eaf Smith and Orley Lilly.

IT CAN HAPPEN HERE.

The Rubber Situation

In my opinion, the so-called "rubber situation" would be cleared up if the various parties, each seeking either present or future advantages, would be shoved aside.

The processors of rubber want rubber and naturally they want it as cheap as possible.

The farm bloc in Washington wants rubber to be made from agricultural products.

The Washington representatives of the oil producing states want rubber to be produced from crude oil.

The British interests hope, of course, to reacquire their rubber producing regions in the Far East. They do not want synthetic rubber to be produced here to compete with the native rubber that they HOPE to control after the war.

In the meantime, the "rubber situation", which could be cleared up, gets worse and worse.

Every selfish interest should be junked so that rubber could be produced, as it CAN be produced. The public interest, and the vital matter of getting on with the war, should be paramount to any other interest.

UNDER THE MAGNOLIA TREE

By Herbert B. Allen

Terrible as war is as a method of settling differences, civil war is even more terrible than war between different nationalities, or between different races.

During the first world war, there was not much hatred for the Germans, or "Jerries," among the British soldiers. In the Westminister Cafe, in Hamburg, which was one of my favorite cities, I have had many friendly arguments with German veterans who had been in front of the Canadian lines—and who bore souvenirs to prove it! There is a certain censorship between the veterans of all armies.

But when soldiers of the same nationality engage in battle, feeling runs much higher than when a foreign foe is involved, for the issues are generally more personal to the soldiers. Yet even in civil warfare, evidences of friendship may arise under strange circumstances. The brotherhood of man is not entirely a myth. Blood is still thicker than water.

We recently received a letter from Mrs. Allen's grandfather, Mr. Bartholomey A. Ault, an attorney, of Hot Springs, Arkansas, in which he related an incident that occurred during the War between the States that is of unusual interest.

The Ault and Allen families were English Quakers. The Allens left England and entered the New World through the Gulf of St. Lawrence, becoming Canadians. The Aults left England in 1682 with William Penn's expedition which founded the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, becoming Americans.

When the Revoluntionary War broke out 94 years later, the Aults' sympathies were with the Colonies, and they took up arms against England. Many of the soldiers in old time armies were mere boys, so it is not surprising that one very young Ault boy enlisted in the army of General George Washington, with his father.

According to Mr. Ault: "My great-great grandfather Ault, my great grandfather Ault, and my great grandfather Bowman, all served during the American Revolution, under Washington. During that terrible winter when Washington was encamped at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, my great-great-grandfather Ault was killed while erecting a target for the artillery to practice shooting their cannons at—it having fallen on him, but both great-grandfathers, Ault and Bowman lived through the war.

"During the War between the States, my great grandfather Ault was wounded in the leg by Union soldiers who had ordered him to halt as he was coming out of his orchard carrying a small sack of peaches. Being hard of hearing, he did not heed the command to halt and a Union soldier fired at him.

"When the Union soldiers approached the old man, he rebuked them sharply for shooting one of General Washington's soldiers. When they learned that they had wounded one of the Revolutionary veterans, the Union soldiers regretted their action greatly. They carried the old soldier into his home, dressed his wounds, and he recovered. In 1868 he died at the age of 102, and in the same year my great grandfather Bowman died at the age of 104."

The age at which these two young soldiers of Washington's army died is of unusual interest to veterans and soldiers, for the hardships to which they were exposed are known to every American who has ever opened a history book. They not only survived Valley Forge; they lived through the terrors of the war of 1861-65!

This bears out, to some extent, my firm conviction that soldiers should be between the ages of 17 and 26. At that age they have an adventurous spirit, are usually carefree, possess the physical resistence to withstand hardships and have the youthful vitality to recuperate rapidly from wounds and injuries.

Take all the soldiers in the U. S. Army over 26, and that includes the great majority of them, and let me have the youngsters. Take all the generals and colonels over 45, and let me have the field officers who are in their thirties and early forties.

My outfits, with their youth, energy, and spirit of adventure, will go places, and get there, while your middle-aged soldiers and their eldery commanders are trying to get the aches out of their reluctant bones, and trying to get their aged wits into operation—with the aid of plenty of Scotch whiskey.

Soldiering has always been a young man's job, and it always will be. And the best generals have usually been men under fifty. There are some rare exceptions to that rule: men who have been gifted with great talent for military leadership. Among those exceptions are two former Superintendents of the United States Military: General Robert E. Lee and General Douglas MacArthur.

After the Revolutionary War, the Aults went South to Georgia and became planters. Following Sherman's march to the sea, nothing remained of their Georgia holdings, and they made their way through Tennessee and settled in Arkansas, along with thousands of other Georgia families.

Mr. Bartholomew A. Ault, Mrs. Allen's grandfather, was born in Arkadelphia, Arkansas, in 1867. He was one of those hardy Southerners who survived the reconstruction era, and who worked energetically and intelligently to build the Arkansas of today.

His granddaughter, Esther Ault Allen, was a Lieutenant in the Nurse Corps of the Regular Army when I met her. We were married in Vicksburg, Mississippi. Hence, my keen interest in all things Southern, and especially those things that bear more directly on the welfare and prosperity of Arkansas and Mississippi.

V-LETTERS TO BE USED FOR WRITING MEN OVERSEAS

The Post Office Department announced today that the V-Mail Service, inaugurated on June 15, 1942, is now past the experimental stage, with each week showing large increases in the number of letters mailed to American soldiers overseas.

The War Department has increased its facilities to handle promptly the volume expected in the future.

Facilities for photographing and reproducing V-Mail to and from the United States and the British Isles, Australia, India, Hawaii and other points are now in operation. A similar service in being planned for Iceland points where the volume may warrant.

Pointing out that V-Mail provides a safe means of communication with members of our armed forces, the Post Office Department gave assurance that the film (upon which the communications are reproduced) are given the most expeditious dispatch available. Because of the small space taken up by the rolls of film, they often can be carried on ferry planes or bombers.

Every pound of weight which can be saved on air transports overseas, said the Department, means that an equivalent amount of weight can be allotted vital military materials.

In recognition of this, and in an effort to insure delivery of mail to as many men as possible at overseas destinations when space is limited, the War and Navy Departments have directed the V-Mail be given priority in dispatch over all other classes—including air mail—when transportation facilities under control of those departments are used.

V-Mail letter sheets have been distributed at all post offices; and have been provided all military and naval personnel at overseas points through Army and Navy post offices and military channels.

Private firms and individuals have also been permitted by the Post Office Department to reproduce the letter sheets. The sheets also will be available soon to all stores selling stationery.

V-Mail Service provides for the use by patrons of a special letter sheet form which is a combination letter and envelope of uniform size and design. The patron writes his message, completes the name and address of the addressee and the return card in the space provided, folds, seals, and mails the letter in the usual manner. Patrons are warned that only the inner or letter side of V-Mail letters are photographed, and should be careful to show complete address of the person to whom thte message is sent in the panel provided therefor above the space for the message. It is preferable to print the address in large block letters. Enclosures must not be placed in the letters.

V-Mail letters are photographed on micro-film by automatic machines at the rate of 2,000 to 2,500 per hour and the film rolls containing 1,500 letters each are transmitted to destinations. Redroductions are tthem made by other automatic machines and delivered to the addressee in individual sealed window penalty envelopes.

When V-Mail letters are addressed to places where micro-film equipment is not in operation, the letters are transmitted to destinattion in original form by the most expeditious means available. Even in these instances savings in weight and space are accomplished since there are approximately 97 V-Mail letters in a pound, whereas, ordinary letters average 40 per pound.

The War, Navy and Post Office Departments all cooperated in developing this Service, largely with a view to decreasing the volume of mail to be carried overseas and providing an expeditious service.

The public is urged to use it at every opportunity.

LET'S TALK ABOUT PULLETS SAYS MRS. NEELY

How about your pullets? During this month, the pullets should be given a close final culling preparatory to going into laying quarters for the winter. If the pullets have been well cared for during the summer, there should not be much need of heavy culling. Any undersize individual should be removed and eaten or disposed of on the market. Fully developed pullets are necessary if the owner wishes to get the maximum in egg production. Depending upon the breed, a fully developed pullet should weigh from three and one-half pounds ta six and one-half poundg. (Leghorns used as light weight breeders and Orphingtons as the heavy breeders.)

The time to change pullets from growing mash to laying mash depends on the age of the birds, body development, and time of the year the bird starts laying. Usually this change is made after the flock come into production. Late hatched pullets do not develop as rapidly as those hatched early and for that reason should be kept on a growing mash supplemented by grain until they [illegible] ment.

Is your laying house in order? Before pullets are placed in the laying house with the old hens, be sure to examine the old birds for lice, and if any are found, rid them of these pests before moving the young birds in. After checking over the hens, check over the house itself. Be sure to thoroughly clean and disinfect wall, roosts, windows, drinking fountains, feed hoppers, floor, nests, etct.

Plan now for your winter greens. August and September are excellent months in which to prepare soil and plant such crops as oats, rape, and rye to be used as green feed through fall and winter months.

NARRATIVE REPORT OF COUNTY HEALTH UNIT

We present this as our first monthly report of the activities of the Grenada County Health Department. Although this department has been functioning since June 16 of this year, for convenience, we will consider this our first complete monthly report. All tabulated work was done during the month of July.

Practically the entire time of the Sanitation Supervisor has been spent visiting and inspecting the various food-handling establishments in and near the city of Grenada. With a few exceptions, we have been most courteously received, and practically all the places seem anxious to cooperate with us in carrying out the rules and regulations of the State Board of Health governing food-handling establishments.

We have tried to make it clear to everyone that we are here to work with and for the people of Grenada County, and it is our desire to be of every possible assistance to them.

A considerable part of our time has been devoted to the Venereal Disease Program, which at present is one of the most important problems confronting not only the various health departments, but the entire country as well. Mississippi has the highest Syphilis rate of any sttate in the United States. It is estimated that 1 out of each 40 white and 33 out of each 100 colored people in Mississippi have Syphilis, which is a preventable disease. That means that here in Grenada County, with a white population of 8,000 we have 200 cases of Syphilis in whites and 3000 cases of Syphilis in the colored population 11,000. At present, we are operating two Venereal Disease Clinics at the Health Department one on Thursday morning for selectees who have been rejected for military service on account of having Syphilis, and the other on Friday morning for those who are not selectees. The ones who are receiving treatment in this clinic are made up almost entirely of food-handlers and antepartum cases. We are glad to report that out of the large number of food handlers we have examined, we have not found a single case of venereal disease in a white person.

We also are operating an Antepartum Clinic at the Health Department each Tuesday afternoon, and to date we have had a good response to this clinic, in which it is the purpose of the Health Department to make periodic examinations of pregnant women, including urinalysis, blood pressure, Wassermenn blood test for Syphilis, instructions as to diet, rest, and care of the teeth, and when indicated, the patient is referred to a private physician or dentist for treatment.

Also, we are giving immunization for Diphtheria, Smallpox and Typhoid and it is very important that everyone avail themselves of this protection.

We had one case of Tuberculosis reported during the month of July.

Seen, Heard and Told
By The Editor

While we have been unable to verify the report, we understand that Red Briscoe, who has taken charge of Bilbo affairs in this community, had to vulcanize Bilbo's girdle while the Senator Senator was here last Thursday.

According to many people Bilbo is dead AGAIN. That ubiquitous person will, however, scratch out of his grave before 1946. I have given up hope of being rid of Bilbo until they finally screw him into the ground down at Juniper Grove, tho I have been voting agin him since the first vote I ever cast in 1911.

Our prediction was correct. Senator Bilbo did not visit the Ground Hog Barber Shop to see Sax Weir.

Soldier D. L. Fair, Jr., brother of Mrs. Bob Brown, has been added to our list as Mrs. Brown thought her brother would enjoy the GCW. I hope he does. Hope Brother Hight does not become jealous.

The primary is over. The REAL battle now begins.

Bob Brown dropped in, an although it was the Sabbath Day, tendered a renewal check which was accepted under protest (?)

Not a single hat was torn up at the Bilbo speech Thursday.

What have the politicians done for the former owners of land in the cotton area?

I had rather be cussed than not noticed.

Aint they sweet.

Russia has been pushed off the headlines, but in Russia the war will be decided.

Those who presented themselves to vote, but to find that they had not registered on the NEW registration books should NOW register, in order to get ready for the BIG election next year.

I do not envy the job of any of the draft board's members.

Mrs. Paul Gerard, widow of our fellow soldier Paul N. Gerard, of Cleveland, continues to keep up with affairs in Grenada through the columns of the GCW. She continues to make her home in Cleveland.

Grenada does not know what it has in store, with thousands of soldiers here. Their presence will tax the ability of a united Grenada. Soldiers are not men apart; they are merely boys like your boy and my boy, subject to the same temptations and to the same influences.

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

GARDEN CLUB MEETS

On Thursday afternoon, August 20, the Garden Club met in the home of the Club's president Mrs. G. D. Thomason for one of the most delightful meetings of the summer.

The reception rooms were certainly most artistically decorated for this occasion and were truly inspiring to club members who receive so much pleasure from beautiful flowers. The living room featured a pink motif, using lovely asters, roses, snapdragon and an unusually handsome arrangement of Armarillis lilies. The adjoining dining room featured a decorative motif of yellow. A large yellow crockery bowl was filled with marigolds and zinnias of varied shades of yellow and this arrangement was further enhanced by adding two yellow tapers on each side. Surely the poem for August must have inspired this lovely arrangement.

The poem reads:

"There is a golden haze above the sea;
The yellow butterflies begin to drift
To their harboring. There is no rift
In earth or air in Nature's Symphony".

Two splendid topics were discussed. The first, "A Clump of Autumn Crocus", was given by Mrs. George Grant. The second topic "Culture of Peonies", was given by Mrs. T. B. Revell.

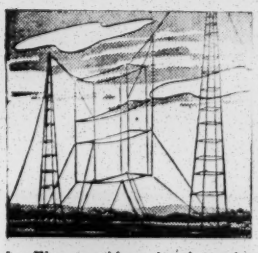
Towers of Truth

Chinese, Finnish, Tagalog, Dutch, Spanish—programs in more than a dozen tongues go out from the towers of General Electric stations WGEA and WGEO, Schenectady, and KGEI, San Francisco.



1. They provide authentic war information for news-starved peoples around the globe, entertainment for U.S. forces abroad. These G-E short-wave stations . . .

2. . . . have special antennas "pointed" at Australia, South America, China, Europe—making reception there almost as strong as from local stations.

3. They provided the only U.S. programs that reached Bataan. People in conquered lands risk their lives to listen. Smuggled letters say they bring hope of release.

4. Some announcers are regular G-E production employees, working on war work. They tell people in their native lands that America is determined on victory.

General Electric believes that its first duty as a good citizen is to be a good soldier.

DINNER PARTY

Tuesday evening Mrs. W. W. Whitaker entertained in honor of her eldest daughter, Dorothy, at a dinner and picture show party. This party was on Dorothy's birthday.

The home was decorated with garden flowers with emphasis centered in bouquet arrangements in the large living room at the rear of the home which overlooks the garden. Eight places were laid at the damask draped table and lovely radiance roses from Mrs. Jackson's garden centered the table. Surrounding this arrangement were placed exquisite ferns and two slender pink tapers flanked the roses. The buffet, where the birthday cake was placed, was decorated with fragrant white clematis. After dinner the young ladies enjoyed an evening at the Grenada Theatre.

The guests were Misses Louise Sanderson, Cynthia Wade, Dick Jones, Martha Less Brown, Susan Proby, Carolyn Whitaker, Mrs. Frank Horton and the honree.

Col. Ryder and his charming wife have arrived in Grenada and are at the Barwin Hotel. They are desirous of finding a house to reside in at the earliest possible moment, and surely they will be able to do so. Col. Ryder is in charge of the thousands of young men to report at Camp McCain, and his responsibilities are great. Welcome to Grenada, Colonel and Mrs. Ryder.

A Youth Revival will be held at the Methodist Church from Sunday, September 6th to Thursday, September 10th. The services will begin at 8 p. m. Everyone is invited to hear prominent speakers who are interested in young people, speaking on questions that are puzzling youth of today.

Thomas Rose, Jr., in training at Summit, Miss. spent the week-end here with his family.

TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. E. L. Morrow entertained at her home when bridge club members gathered at her home at 3:30. Two tables were placed in the living room for the games. Mrs. Norman Ames, of Washington, D. C. enjoyed the afternoon with club members.

In the late afternoon a delectable congealed fruit salad on cantalonpe was served with wafers and tea.

MRS. DAAID DUBARD HOSTESS

The Friday Bridge Club members enjoyed the charming hospitality of Mrs. David Dubard's home on Friday last when bridge games were enjoyed, several visitors complimented.

Mrs. Dubard's mother, Mrs. Robert Lee, of Vance, also Mrs. Leslie Walker, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Rob Brown, of Louisville, were the out of town guests present and Mrs. Estes Pleasants and Mrs. Juel Batson were non member guestst to enjoy the party. Several prizes were given including a dainty gift for the visitors and a farewell gift for Mrs. Chas. Dickinson. Mrs. Walter Garner received high score prize. At intermission the hostess served a delectable shrimp salad, waters and tea.

Miss Flora Anderson, technician at Grenada Hospital, has returned from a delightful vacation spent on the Coast, at Mobile, where her father is stationed and a trip to Florida. Her mother accompanied her to Mobile.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

The Twentieth Century Club's officers for 1942-43 are as follows:

Mrs. J. B. Perry, Sr., president; Mrs. H. L. Honeycutt, vice-president; Mrs. G. W. Patty, recording secretary; Mrs. E. A. Penn, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. C. Prose, treasurer.

Executive Committee, Mrs. J. C. Hathorn, Mrs. R. A. Clanton and Mrs. T. B. Revell.

Program Committee, Mrs. C. O. Penn, Mrs. F. A. Stacy, Mrs. W. W. Whitaker.

The programs will be on "Famous Women of Yesterday and Today."

The Club meets on the first and third Tuesdays of the month, at 3:30 in the afternoon. On Tuesday, Sept. 1 the meeting will be held at the Community House and will be an open meeting.

At this open meeting the ladies of the town are cordially invited to attend. The chairmen of Arrangements are Mrs. Gertude Marders, and Mrs. Giles Patty.

The guest speaker's appearance here is being sponsored by the Twentieth Century Club, and it is of interest to know that she will speak at the Rotary Club at their luncheon Tuesday. The guest speaker, Mrs. Arthur Wade, of Canberra, Australia, is a lecturer of note and is speaking before clubs or gatherings as often as is possible, considering the fact that she is the mother of two young children, one of whom is a victim of the dreaded infantile paralysis germ. Having to leave Australia with her children, unable to bring any money or possessions, Mrs. Wade is a living example of the American women who left their husbands on duty in the war zone and returned to America with their children.

A silver offering will be taken at the door and the entire offering is to go to Mrs. Wade.

Again I will add, you are cordially invited and assured that Mrs. Wade has a fine message for all of us.

Tea will be served at the end of the program.

Miss Sitt Hitt spent several days in Mobile, Ala. recently.

One on the winning side can well be magnanimous about the fray. For the the first time in my life I was on BOTH winning sides—Abernethey's and Eastland's.

To those who supported the men who lost, or the men who were eliminated, I can accord the same sincerity of motives as I accord to myself.

With MY men leading the ticket in almost every box in Grenada county, I can well be elated, not that I had a darn thing to do with the result (for I am more of a liability than an asset).

Contrary to expectations, we did not have to bury Cousin Will Hoffa Wednesday, for he was as chipper and full of conversation as usual.

No reasonable person can deny that I had a good reason for fighting Mr. Ford. I never did quit fighting him. Now that he can soon retire to his Arkansis plantation, I have nothing more to say.

I still pinch myself to see if I am dreaming, for I am so seldom on the winning side. I believe my last winner was Mike Conner in 1931—11 years ago.

In spite of the ambitions of office seekers, we folks here in Greenada have to live together. Let the sores heal quickly. I would not swap a good local friend for ALL the office seekers.

Mr. Ford should be mighty proud of Tie Plant. We Abernethy fellows do not begrudge Ford ONE box in the county.

J. H. Biddy reported that there was a regular Wild West drama, with lights shot out, etc., near the depot one night last week.

A camp employee, trying to make one of the highway patrolmen carrying him to Duck Hill, got mad when informed that the car was no taxi and proceeded to get rough. The highway man got rough too. Blood was spewed on the sidewalk near the post office, and the would-be rider landed in Hotel de Jail. Just drunk, and feeling his onions—as you and I.

Welcome to C. C. Stockard, of Savannah, Tenn., who has cast his lot with the GCW.

Poor Ford.

And now it looks like poor Ross Collins was like the dog crossing the clear stream on a foot log, and with a nice pork chop in his mouth. He saw another dog in the clear water below, apparently holding a BIGGER pork chop, jumped in to get the BIG chop, and lost BOTH chops. Oh, me.

The record of ANY man, who has served 20 years, can be picked as I picked the record of Ross Collins and leave the fellow who was picked looking like a forforn wayfarer. My letter to Ross put Ross on the defensive, and that's half the battle.

After it is all over, there is no doubt that Ross Collins is a pretty fair, average man.

Brother W. T. Brown was rained out here last week, but, unfortunately for him it made little difference in the result. He was a good solid gentleman, but one who had been led into a region that he knew nothing of—politics.

It is up to Senate—Aspirant Smith to send Rotund Ross and Roll-em a nice bunch of his choice flowers, and to save an extra nice bunch for Wall Doxey on September 21.

Most folks wanted to save Roll-em for Bilbo in 1946.

Bilbo must be slipping, as HIS man, Doxey, did not lead the ticket.

The fireworks now start.

Aint they sweet.

Most of the Collins' votes that I know are strictly anti-Bilbo and will, in the run-off go to Eastand, and that's bad news for Doxey.

I hope in next week's issue to report that, thru the forbearances of my creditors and thru good luck, I have been able to get by another first of the month.

Everybody has been speculating on the question, "What is going to happen to our fine prospects of an extra cotton crop." The recent rains are furnishing an answer to these queries

Cousin Tom Spears, a regular borrower of the GCW, was in town Saturday.

Notes Taken At The Camp

The camp commander, Col. Ryder, has showed up. He has not much of a command yet, but soon will have according to reports.

I did not know until recently that Miss Isabel Bailey was secretary at the Robinson and Young Company.

No man sticks closer to his knitting than does Brother Rubin who is the president of the company which is doing such an excellent job putting down the asphalt on the roads. Clock-like regularity is apparent all over his job.

Better roof trusses are now being built.

The other offices have to go some to have more courteous "Information" than Mr. Phillip's office. It is always a pleasure to seek "Informarion" from that "Informer."

About five groups of buildings, each group consisting of a chapel, a theatre and a recreational building, are going up simultaneously. Unfortunately I expect the latter two will receive more patronage than the former.

I never can get it straight whether it is Vanzant, Vhzant, or Vincent. But that gentleman gets everything straight and that's what counts.

Mr. McWhirter, one of Kratt's right hands, says his wife has taken up my title, "dude," for him.

Brother Pew has been spending the week in the company headquarters in Atlanta. I hope he does not get into any devilment.

I still wonder if they have any printing done out there.

Mr. Kratt has 3 boys who are likely to grow up to be as big and husky as their daddy.

I always enjoy dropping in at the guard house. However, I never did enjoy staying there when I was in the army.

Captain Mitchell's civilian guards have been taught to stand at "ten-shun" and give snappy salutes to the military officers as they pass.

My daughters, Dorothy and Caroline, certainly work in an office filled with fine folks from the boss on down.

I guess they use mimeographed forms there instead of printed forms.

In all seriousness, I want to say that I always receive a cordial welcome there, and those fellows make me think that I am somebody after all.

The southmost area, as seen from the highway, appears to be about ready to receive troops. Dame Rumor hath it that troops will be moving in soon. However, nobody in authority has made such a statement.

Mr. Phillips of the Chas. T. Main Company, upon whose shoulders rests heavy responsibility, is another one who sticks close to his knitting during office hours.

My first job, after leaving college, was a two-years job in hard rock, and, while some construction men may be rough, you will nearly always find them generours to a fault.

U. S. N. IS BADLY IN NEED OF SUITABLE MEN

Never in the history of U. S. Navy have requirements for enlistment been so flexaible as today. The Navy Department has set aside a score of old regulations so that no man will have an excuse to ignore the plea. The Navy needs men, the kind of men that have the courage to step up and assert: "I want to join up." Our Navy wants to protect it's men and in order to do so all ships must be adequately manned to insure the safety and protection of all.

Men up to 50 years and down as low as 17 will be accepted and trained; physical requirements have been modified; pay has been increased with dependent allowance, and those of draft age are permitted to enlist up to the date of induction.

The Navy's expansion is now of such magnitude that there probably is not an able-bodied man between 17 and 50 who can't get in if he goes to a recruiting office and tries. With the modified physical requirements now in effect, many capable men can be enlisted, who previously would not have been able to meet the former physical demands.

If you want action, the Navy wants you, come and enlist today and serve your Country in the First line of Defense. Serve your Country in a Service that will insure your future. Get in the Navy now.

All men interested in enlisting in the Navy or Naval Reserves should report to U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Grenada, Mississippi. Office hours 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. week days, 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. Sundays.

Army Expands Officer School For Volunteers

Governor Paul B. Johnson announces that he has been informed by the acting state director, Lt. Colonel Lawrence W. Lontz, that a rapid expansion of facilities has made an increase possible in the Officer Candidate School of the Army. These schools are now open to Class III-A Selective Service registrants deferred for dependency only, as well as certain grades of army personnel. Governor Johnson's interest is manifested by the fact that his son completed the Officer Candidate School in July. Information has been received that indicates that these schools are now geared to a capacity twice that announced in January.

Inaugurated in July, 1941, with a program that called for the training of 10,000 applicants for commission, the officer candidate school program is prepared to turn out approximately that number every two weeks.

Volunteer officer candidates are accepted for induction if they meet the physical, mental, character and citizenship requirements and if they are considered to possess the requisite qualities of leadership.

OPEN COMPETITION

After induction, these individuals are given no special consideration. They compete for admission to officer candidate schools with all other eligibles, members of the army, including warrant officers and enlisted men, 18 to 45 years of age. Transfer to overseas duty does not bar enlisted men from becoming officer candidates.

Unlike other inductees under the selective training and service act, the volunteer officer candidate is permitted to choose his branch of service. Other inductees may express preference as to the branch of service they wish to serve and a choice of the schools of the various arms and services and at least one alternate choice.

Volunteer officer candidates, like all other officer candidates, unless specially qualified, must serve at least three months in an enlisted status after induction before becoming eligible for appointment to an officer candidate school. In the event that any volunteer officer candidate is not selected to attend school within four months after induction, he may, upon request, be relieved from duty and return to civilian status until such time as other selective service registrants in his class are called.

SHOULD AWAIT NOTICE

This relief from duty will also be granted, upon request, to volunteer officer candidates who fail to complete satisfactorily the prescribed course of training at an officer candidate school.

The War Department re-emphasized that candidates who have been notified of their acceptance should take no action toward setting their affairs preparatory to induction until notification is received of their dates of induction from their local selective service boards, which dates may be several months later than the dates of their initial acceptance.

Following is a list of officer candidate schools no win operation:

The Adjutant General's Antiaircraft Artillery, Air Force Administrative Armored Force, Cavalry, Chemical Warfare Service, Coast Artillery (Seacoast Engineers, Field Artillery, Finance, Medical Administrative Corps, Military Police, Ordinance, Quartermaster, Signal Corps and Tank Destroyer.

THE HOME FRONT

REGIONAL OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION

Scores of trucks and busses in the southeastern states are already idle—checked up on wooden blocks without tires. That's solemn news for the home front.

News that our boys have begun to recapture tropic rubber shores from Japan is cheering, but rubber for civilians is still out of the picture. Folks who travel are going to get their toes stepped on and find many an elbow in their faces in transportation jams by September, says ODT. Drivers are warned to have tires by reducing speeds and making fewer stops.

EUROPE'S FOOD SHORTAGE

While our government is having millions of pounds of vegetables to ship our fighting men, shortages harrass the conquered people of Europe. In Norway, onions, picked in a marsh, were sold at 48 cents a pound.

Could you feed five people on two pounds of vegetables a week? In France, foarmer land of good eating, that's about all there is to keep the conquered citizens alive. Dairy products are so scarce that in Germany, they're using lubricating oil for butter.

LARGE CROP HERE

WPB figures show 350,000,000 quarts of food will be canned in the southeast this year, and farmers are producing record amounts of wheat, corn, cheese, eggs, poultry and cereals. The government is paying good prices in the South for dehydrated potatoes, onions, cabbage, beets, carrots and turnips. Millions of pounds are needed for the army.

OPA now believes there will be no decrease in the amount of our sugar rations for at least another year. Sugar stamp No. 8 is food for five pounds, but it must last over a longer period of time.

WORK CLOTHES PEGGED

During the last war the mail order price of overalls jumped from 82c to $2.95. A new rise was threatened last week, but OPA took steps to see that work clothing doesn't skyrocket this time.

Boy Scouts have volunteered to help control inflation by delivering leaflets which explain price control to every home in the country.

Stickler for Good Diction Meets Stickler for Facts

Several men were seated around a table, reminiscing. One fellow, who had been trying to tell his story for some time, finally broke in:

"On the day on which my wedding occurred—"

"You'll pardon the correction," broke in the correct dictionist, "but affairs such as marriages, receptions, dinners, and things of that sort 'take place.' It is only such things as calamities which 'occur.' You see the distinction, I am sure."

The "corrected" one thought for a moment, then replied: "Yes, I see. As I was saying before I was interrupted, on the day on which my wedding occurred—"

Everybody wants to know what to send a soldier, sailor, Coast Guardsman, or Marine. The answer is simple if he smokes a pipe or rolls-his-own. Send a pound of tobacco. Tobacco, according to numerous surveys among the men themselves, is the gift most appreciated, and most wanted. Favorite smoking tobacco of many service men is Prince Albert, the National Joy Smoke—a title well-deserved since Prince Albert is the world's largest-selling smoking tobacco. Local dealers are featuring Prince Albert in the pound can as ideal gifts to men in the service.—Adv.

JACOB'S VISION OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 28:10-22.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whithersoever thou goest.—Genesis 28:15.

Deception, trickery, falsehood, jealousy were all present in the family of Isaac at the time of our lesson. A hopeless situation, one would say; and so it was, apart from one thing—the grace of God. We speak that phrase so easily, but in reality it has an infinite depth of meaning.

Jacob shared the deception planned by his mother, and thereby he received the blessing of Esau. Not willing to wait God's time for the carrying out of His purpose, they sinned to gain an advantage. Then to escape the wrath of Esau, he had to flee. The journey was ostensibly to find a wife, but in fact a flight from an enraged brother. Could such a journey bring a man to a place of blessing? It did, as there was—

I. A Revelation of God's Grace (vv. 10-15).

The fugitive was overtaken by darkness on the second night of his journey, and made his bed in the open. Then came the magnificent vision of the ladder of heaven.

Heaven and earth are not separated. There is a way to reach the throne of God, and there is a way for God to reach and bless His people. The vision of the ladder thus reassured Jacob. We need only remember the God-Man Christ Jesus, who came from glory and has returned there to now appear as our Advocate, to be assured of this fact.

God renewed to Jacob the covenant with Abraham and with Isaac. He does not forget. Men make treaties only to break them. God says, "I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of" (v. 15).

In His matchless grace God relieved Jacob's fear by assuring him of His protection; his loneliness by His divine presence; and his uncertainty regarding the future by the promise of blessing.

The response of Jacob was—

II. A Realization of God's Greatness (vv. 16-19).

Full of holy fear and of awe, Jacob realized the presence of the infinite God. It is a proper and a wholesome reaction when a man, realizing himself to be in God's presence, is overcome by the awe-inspiring experience.

Possibly the reason for our lack of reverence for holy things, for the Lord's day—yes, for God Himself, is because He has become a little God, weak and uninspiring in our thinking. Theologians, preachers, and teachers have dared to speak swelling words of disrespect concerning His miraculous power, have denied the deity of His Son, have questioned the authority of His Word. Having sown the wind of unbelief, they have reaped from the people the whirlwind of irreverence, a belittling of God, and a rejection of His authority (Hos. 8:7).

Jacob was reminded of God's immediate presence—"the Lord is in this place." The place of his vision of heavenly things had special meaning to Jacob.

But the underlying truth is that God is everywhere. He is not only in the church, or in the place of vision or of soul-struggle; He is also in the place of trial, of suffering, of sorrow, of loneliness—yes, even of sin. The thing that Jacob "found out that night was not that God visits man, but that God is with man wherever he is. We expect to meet Him in the sanctuary; but He is near us in the market place . . . Not alone in the sanctuary, but where the multitude gather in defiance of His law, He is there" (G. Campbell Morgan).

This rich experience led Jacob to—

III. A Recognition of God's Goodness (vv. 20-22).

The God who would supply his every need, who would watch over him and keep him, was recognized by Jacob as being worthy of his devotion, and he made a vow that He should be his God (v. 21).

The grace and goodness of God are intended to bring men to faith in Him and devotion to His service. Yet men can go on year after year, the beneficiaries of all His bounty, and never so much as say "Thank you," let alone recognize Him as Lord.

Jacob made a very practical and workable decision to demonstrate the reality of his vow. He promised that one tenth of all God gave him should be given back for a sacred use.

We agree with Dr. W. H. Griffith Thomas that "if only some of those who are inclined to criticize Jacob would do what he promised and give a tenth of their income to God, a different state of affairs would obtain in connection with God's work at home and abroad."

Trickery and deception were changed to truthfulness and devotion when Jacob met God face to face. The same blessed transformation awaits those who meet our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ in faith. Have you met Him?

Fabric-Conserving Fashions Possess a New Kind of Style

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

LET no one think that specifications for conserving materials in wartime have put restrictions on attractiveness. On the contrary, the new order of things is ushering in a fashion cycle frought with a newness in chic and charm that is excitingly interesting. Instead of finding them disappointing, you'll find that the new styles have exactly what every woman is looking for—neat silhouette and fine basic design, together with innumerable little niceties of detail which are flattering and lovely and expressive of all that is best in costume technique.

The manipulation of fabric so as to use less yardage simply fascinates with its artfulness and resourcefulness. Materials favored for the new "priority fashions" are those which lend themselves best to a delightfully feminine, draped and moded styling which achieves the utmost in figure flattery. For this purpose rayon crepes are proving ideal for the entire dress or used in combination with satin, faille or velvet. The working of two fabrics together is fashion news of outstanding importance for fall. In fact, the new black-on-black vogue which works black crepe or jersey with satin or faille or touches of black velvet is the fashion high spot of the immediate moment.

Another new trend which reacts to the good in response to the demand for curtailment in the use of metal fastenings is the amazingly clever way in which dresses and coats and blouses are made to close with self-fabric ties, or wraparound devices or with plastic buttons which are as ornamental as they are useful. New to fashion is the wraparound frock with surplice back closing. It's a style you'll adore, for it's slenderizing to the 'nth degree. See it pictured to the right in the accompanying illustration interpreted in smart black rayon sheer, a material which is ideal for summer-into-fall wear. Delicate touches of fine black rayon net at the neck, sleeves and hemline carry out the black-on-black idea now so important. A self-fabric sash ties softly at the buttoned back closing. Worn over a correctly fitted foundation garment, this suavely fitted frock has unusual grace and distinction.

Dressmaker tailoring distinguishes the charming two-piece suit frock to the left in the above illustration. Designed for now and later in handsome black rayon faille, this model features the slim long-torsoed silhouette accented by folds of the fabric at chest and hips of the fitted jacket top. The new "priority" suits with close, fitted jackets and slim skirts must be worn over carefully fitted under garments to achieve the smoothly streamlined effect so essential this season.

For the very chic afternoon dress centered in the group sheer rayon crepe in deep, rich black is draped and molded along slim figure-revealing lines. A self-fabric spaghetti trim makes soft little bows at the flattering sweetheart neck and knots casually at the waistline above the skirt draping, which is concentrated at the front.

Tremendous play is being made on the working of black satin with dull-surfaced rayon crepe. Yokes, insets and bandings of the satin, as well as big, soft bows, give pleasing variation to fall frocks of contrasting fabric.

Color contrast is another featured theme. Designers are highlighting striking effects in no uncertain terms, using sleeves of one color and bodice top of another with the two colors appearing in the skirt. Coat dresses have panels of contrasting color to match the color of the plastic buttons.

Black Satin

Black satin suits are big news for fall. Carefully sleek for autumn wear is this stunning suit done in fashion's newest fabric favorite—satin! The little jacket of this New York creation features the new shorter length. It flares slightly, as does also the discreetly gored skirt. The highly decorative plastic buttons are in aqua coloring. Together with an aqua colored corsage, they add the prettily feminine touch. The stores are showing satin suits of this type in dark, rich jewel colors, too, but black is the favorite.

Bangles

Braiding, passementerie, dangles of all kinds, sequin embroideries, beadwork, novelty buttons, plastic gadgets, much jet and crystal and a wide use of embroidery and applique give to fall fashions interesting variety.

'Black' Is Still an Important Word

At all fashionable gatherings it becomes increasingly apparent that black is staging a triumphant comeback into the fashion picture. The smartness and importance of black is strikingly evidenced in the stunning new black satin gowns featured in a prologue to the fall season.

The new black frocks that make slim silhouettes their theme are appearing everywhere in fashionable gatherings. They look smartest adorned with a single, important piece of jewelry and with giddily colorful long gloves and an enchanting hat to supply the prettily feminine touch.

Then there are the entrancingly "pretty-pretty" black sheers, many of which take on endearing pink or pale blue accents. Black shantung and black linen suits are declared by many to be the smartest town-wear costume of the season. For dressy afternoon wear there's nothing in the way of a suit which outclasses those styled of black bengaline. Women are also expressing a desire for simple daytime frocks made of black rayon jersey.

An Old Favorite, the Lace Blouse, Is Back

It is anticipating its advent a long time ahead, but there is promise of the return of the lace blouse to be worn with jewel colored velvet suits and, for that matter, with satin in deep dark colors or black.

The sheerest of sheer black lace blouses has been in evidence for some time past, and it will continue its triumphs. However, the big news is the lace blouse made delightfully feminine with frilly accents, styled either of delicate Alencon or of very sheer Chantilly.

Dangerous Low Notes

The lowest notes on the pipe organs in many European cathedrals are rarely played because it is feared that the intense vibrations might shatter the stained-glass windows.

Fat Kine or Lean

By E. L. HALL
(©—Clure Syndicate—WNU Features.)

NOON hour was on at the lunch-counter of the All-American Bus terminal, and Mr. Otto Semberkind was busy. Not that Otto was not busy every noon hour—no; but that today he was much busier than usual. He was contemplating, nay, was bent on doing a momentous thing.

Ordinarily, his business was "san'wiches 'n' cawfy." Today, in a large measure, it was Miss Gertie Weinkoop; one of the All-American ticket-sellers—the lean one with straight hair and slim legs, third from last window on the right. Gertie had come to his section for luncheon. More than this, Gertie had been coming to his section for luncheon every day, now, these past three weeks.

To put his present case in his own expressive words, Otto was "nuts on Gertie." His cardiac exciter was demanding of him that he propose marriage to her not later than ten thirty that evening.

Now had Otto only stopped to think about it; there was a slight obstacle to the consummation of his desire. It was this: A first Mrs. Otto Semberkind was still very much in the flesh—some hundred and eighty-nine pounds of it—wandering about somewhere up in the Pennsylvania sticks, wondering where her dapper husband had gone.

Otto Semberkind was a fugitive from matrimony. Understand this. Not from matrimony as he had dreamed of it in adolescence; was now dreaming of it—a hybrid sort of conjugal union with an ideal. But from the real thing—the common garden variety of union with excess weight and too much tongue.

A year ago—back in his pre-war New York days—Otto had suddenly decided that he could and would no longer endure those twin evils—weight and words. They just spoil any wife, no matter how many kilowatt-hours of love she may be capable of generating.

People used to wonder at them, he knew, whenever Mrs. Otto came—and she came often—to eat the Star Quick Lunch up in Peaville, Pennsylvania, where Otto worked.

So Otto had lit out. Now, dead to the old life (for never a bus from Peaville, Pennsylvania, finds its way to his All-American), he had risen fast in the new. Already he had forgotten how hick towns look. Also, he had forgotten other women and was concentrating on lean Gertie Weinkoop. No more fat ones for Mr. Otto Semberkind, he would tell the world. He could take his pick yet-a-while. "Don't look a day over twenty-three."

And he did not, although he was actually ten days beyond his three-and-thirty mark. His straw-colored locks were strong and full. His eyes held the lure of youth in their azure depths. Only a silly round chin-dimple kept him from looking quite a man.

But he need not worry a whit about his chin-dimple, since Gertie Weinkoop was showing him favor. She was the sort to stand by through thick and thin. Even now her big hazel eyes were gazing wistfully at him over the rim of her three-decker. Big hazel eyes with the light in them.

And he was crooning to her; making his voice sound something like Rudy's, only with the necessary business interludes of course—"

"Speaking of faces, kid, strange we never see one we know in all this crowd. But we should worry as long as . . . What's that, kid? Someone lookin' at me? Where, kid? Right back of me . . . at the other counter? Keeps lookin' hard, does she? I should worry when I have you . . ."

"Ot-toe . . . dee'ar . . ."

The words came to him as if across the void of memory. There was no mistaking the voice that had uttered them. He had heard it a thousand times—calling his name that way. He could not look around—simply could not. But how had she found him?

"What made yuh run away, dovie? Did yuh git tired of me? Bertie Tinkham told me where you was."

Terrible—that tongue—that dovey—everything! Should he run from it? Make a break for liberty out of the side door. Would Gertie run with him? Could they lose themselves in love and the Bronx—or in love and Hoboken, perhaps? Should he? Would she?

He cast one imploring glance at his ideal—and saw the answer to his riddle. Gertie Weinkoop was eyeing him coldly. The face he lived for looked as if its teeth had just bitten into a bad dog. And there was that other woman—clinging to him like a leech—

"Won't yuh come back home, Otto? I'm so lonesome . . . and everybody misses yuh. Come with me, Otto . . . Back to Peaville on the bus. I'll pay the fares, dovey."

Otto Semberkind slowly took off his white apron; got his hat and coat; and turned sadly to Mrs. Otto—as rejected lovers sometimes turn to Death. For lean Gertie Weinkoop had thumbed her nose at him; had gone, tittering, back to her ticket window; and had not paid for her three-decker-toasted and her malted milk.

Cut Your Fuel Wood During Slack Periods

Release Transportation, Improve Forests That Way

By J. E. DAVIS
(Extension Forester, University of Illinois College of Agriculture.)

Woodland owners can release transportation for war purposes by burning their own wood and supplying wood for similar use in towns and cities.

Fuel-wood cutting according to a definite plan to correct poor forest conditions resulting from mistakes of the past is suggested.

Fuel wood can be obtained from misshapen trees, dead and insect-ridden trees, other cull trees, from tops of trees cut for saw logs and from suppressed or unthrifty trees cut in thinning or woodland improvement operations.

Trees suitable for lumber, veneer logs, box bolts or other special products should not be taken for fuel. Large quantities of oak are needed for ships, hickory and ash for handles and lumber and pulpwood for other war industries.

These products can be obtained only from well-formed trees, and cutting them for fuel is a waste of valuable resources.

During Slack Periods.

Fuel wood can be harvested during slack periods on the farm, but some time must be allowed for seasoning. Cutting should also be planned to promote a better stand of thrifty growing timber by removing "wolf" and "weed" trees.

For seasoning, the wood should be stacked, not heaped, on bed pieces over dry ground, and preferably in an open yard to get greatest air circulation. Fuel wood burns more efficiently and yields much more heat when it has dried at least six months.

Labor-Saving Device

Farmers will have to work more hours to reach their 1942 production goals unless they adopt electricity as a labor-saving device, just as tractors are being used to speed up field work.

It has already been demonstrated that much labor can be saved at a little expense in the use of electricity for lights, for putting water under pressure, for processing and handling feeds, for electric fencing and for operating milking machines and brooding pigs and chicks.

Electricity will play an important part in making the development of rural industries possible. On farms where secondary agricultural production is not practiced, the extra time resulting from the present system of mechanized farming may be used to advantage in the shop operating a wood lathe or other woodworking equipment, or on an electric welder making some part or a complete item of commercial value.

Vegetable Insect Control Is Not a Difficult Task

Follow a few simple rules and control of vegetable insects is not difficult.

A duster may be obtained for a dollar up, but one may be made at home with a tin can, a stick and a piece of cheese cloth. Ask the county extension agents how it's done. Next, have ready a supply of insecticides for use at the first sign of insect injury. These are cryolite for control of bean beetles, cucumber beetles, cabbage worms and other insects which feed upon the fruit and foliage of the plants; rotenone and sulphur to control tomato fruit worm, flea beetles, plant lice and leaf hoppers; and concentrated pyrethrum dust for squash bugs, stink bugs, and harlequin cabbage bugs. Watch the garden for the first sign of injury and dust both sides of leaves.

Apply poison bait late in the afternoon for control of cut worms, grasshoppers and adult wingless May beetle, or June bug. Poison bait also will control mole crickets which frequent sandy soils.

A bait made of cryolite, finely chopped carrots or turnips and wheat bran will control the adult weevil.

ON THE HOME FRONT
With RUTH WYETH SPEARS

EVERYONE knows that quick meals in the kitchen save time, but it was both time and space that had to be saved in this kitchen where breakfasts were eaten on the run and the children had but a few minutes for lunch. The problem was solved by building a 16-inch-wide counter under a window and then making simple stools to be slipped under it when not in use. The dimensions and construction of the stools are shown here. A saw, a screw driver and a wood chisel are the only tools that were used.

The stools were painted cream color to match the woodwork and the counter was covered with blue linoleum like the floor covering. Cream colored place mats, napkins and window curtains embroidered in colorful Mexican figures were then added to give a smart note of gaiety.

• • •

NOTE: These curtains, mats and napkins were made of flour bags and the gay figures tell a story of life down Mexico way. A flower seller, a peon on his burro, a caballero with his guitar, a man leading a pig to market, and girls carrying jugs and baskets on their heads are all worked in simple outline stitch. Transfer pattern including motifs, figures for six mats, six napkins, borders for one pair of curtains and extra figures for several pot holders, is available to our readers. Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for August

Washington, D. C., August 5.—While maintaining a tentative annual level of twelve billion dollars as its goal, the Treasury Department today fixed the August quota for the sale of War Bonds at $815,000,000 as shown by the accompanying map by states.

In lowering the quota from a billion dollars in July to $815,000,000 in August, the Treasury has given recognition to certain factors which may be expected to result in variations in sales over the 12-month period, such as the seasonal character of farm income.

These factors have been taken into account in determining each state's share for the national quota for August and will be given consideration in fixing quotas for subsequent months.

In addition to the state quotas as set out in the map there is a federal payroll allotment quota of $9,750,000 and territorial quotas as follows: Alaska, $760,000; Canal Zone, $213,000; Hawaii, $4,800,000; Puerto Rico, $440,000 and the Virgin Islands, $17,000.

EASTLAND GOT RESULTS IN SENATE

Jim Eastland is making campaign history in his race for United States Senator just as he has made history during his 3-month term in the United States Senate, immediately following the death of Hon. Pat Harrison.

Refusing to sit back on the wornout Senate custom that a young Senator should be only seen and never heard, Jim Eastland went to work and he got results.

No one expected Senator Eastland to accomplish a great deal for his state or nation during this interim period of 88-days, nor did he, himself, dream of events destined to break about him, nor his part in them.

However, into the background of Jim Eastland had gone a great deal of preparation, study on the problems of Mississippi, of the South and nation, coupled with experience of five sessions in the Mississippi Legislature representing his home county of Scott. Events threw Jim Eastland across the national stage of action and brought to him a degree of national recognition rarely accorded any man of similar age and experience. His prompt and successful fight to prevent the dumping of government-owned stocks of cotton on the market in competition with farmer-owned crops prevented a break in the cotton market last year of $20.00 a bale.

Jim Eastland was credited by the Press of bringing $50,000,000 to Mississippi last Fall.

His fight to remove the threat of a ceiling price on cottonseed immediately rose from thirty to fifty dollars a ton.

He fought to remove the $25.00 per thousand price ceiling on pine timber. Jim Eastland locked horns with Leon Henderson. The ceiling went back to the prevailing price of $31.00 epr thousand. Every saw-mill and timber man in Mississippi knows that Jim Eastland got results.

He introduced an amendment to the revenue bill to impose tariff duties on cocoanut oil and other fat which would have guaranteed $20.00 per ton for cottonseed as a permanent "floor," year in and year out, the price of livestock would never decline below present value. This amendment lost by only two votes in the Senate.

The above is a short summary of the phenomenal record of Jim Eastland during his 88-days in the United States Senate. He went to work—he got results.

Today Jim Eastland asks the people of Mississippi to elect him to a full term in the highest legislative body in the nation. If elected, he promises not to tolerate the too-little and too-late policies that have characterized present politicians in Washington.

A brief summary of Jim Eastland's platform follows:

"He will insist that we, above everything else, speedily equip with sufficient weapons our forces on the land, the sea and in the air.

"He will stand for a continuation of the poll tax as being the surest safeguard of white democratic supremacy.

"He will not use the power of the office of United States Senator to attempt to dictate to the voters of Mississippi.

"He will stand for the right of labor to protect itself from unscrupulous employers and from the greed of labor racketeers.

"He will stand for curbing the activities of unnecessary and non-essential government bureaus which tend to work and ruin the small business man and place unnecessary burdens, upon the citizens of this nation.

"He will fight for legislation which will guarantee a confirmation pay for service men for at least 6-months after their discharge so that they may find employment and resume their places in our social and economic life without undue hardship.

"He will fight to regain our export market for cotton by means of the so-called Bankhead gateway through the tariff wall.

"He stands for equal federal per capita distribution of old age pensions.

"He stands for federal aid for the public schools of Mississippi, with full local control under the plan sponsored by the late Senator Pat Harrison.

"He stands for a profitable price for our cotton, cottonseed, fats, dairy and agricultural products and for livestock. Nothing less than a fair parity. And a "floor under the price of cottonseed.

"He stands for an increase in cotton acreage allotments to eliminate discriminations against small cotton farmers."

During the past week, we added ten new subscribers, which is not bad for the tail end of August—the damnest month in the year.

Seen, Heard and Told By The Editor

A great many of our charter members have come in without notices mailed to them, and paid up. Why cannot ALL of them do likewise. It is such a nuisance to fill out and mail a lot of statements.

Sax Weir and I were arguing. I said, "Cousin Will did not bring the Yalobusha River to Grenada, as it was here when Cousin Will was born," but Sax had a quick come-back by saying, "Well, even if he did not bring it here, he straightened it out." There was nothing I could say to that.

Since Fred Sullens has taken up my title, "Big Blow Bilbo," I have invented another one, "Big Belly Bilbo."

Horn and Greenfield have been getting into a lot of devilment over the week-end here during August, and our job customers are going to have to do something about it.

We are fixed up to print a large range of personal military stationery, 100 sheets, with name and insignia of the branch of service printed, and 100 envelopes, with lines for address and the word, "FREE", in the upper right hand corner—all for $2.00; 200 of each for $3.00. Wrapped ready for mailing.

Our Mr. Greenfield, Mr. Huffington and Miss Frankie Hitt visited in Memphis last Friday and reported a grand time.

We designed and had made a cut for Camp McCain, which would be fine to use on personal stationery for people at the camp.

Sgt. Ralph Davis of the Air Corps in Victoria, Texas, has been added to our long list of servicemen who received the GCW. Welcome sarge.

MOTHERS: be sure to register your name with Mrs. E. L. Betz who is trying to get a complete list of the parents of this county whose sons are in the armed forces. This information will greatly facilitate getting news quickly to you, should an emergency arise.

Mrs. Varner, former postmistress at Holcomb, has joined her husband in Memphis where the latter is engaged in war work, and made arrangements for the GCW to pay a weekly vist to their apartment.
